Connection

We connect with the flora of New England and fellow plant enthusiasts through monthly gatherings, field trips, conferences and events.

Contribution

We contribute to the scientific knowledge of New England's flora by maintaining and adding to our herbaria, publishing our peer reviewed scientific journal Rhodora, and awarding grants and scholarships for botanical research.

Conservation

We promote and engage in conservation of native flora through our field trips, publications, outreach, and collaboration with additional organizations and state agencies.
